

James Clark Ross

I am a physicist-turned-philosopher pursuing a research-led career in academic philosophy.

My special interests span metaphysics, philosophy of science, existentialism, and ethics.

I am an effective communicator who is organised, independent, and highly driven.

I have spoken at and chaired national conferences, presenting my scientific work numerous times in the process.

I have extensive experience in research and teaching: my previous roles have led me to become an author and reviewer of several peer-reviewed papers¹, statistician, and a maths, physics, and philosophy tutor.

Philosophy Oct 18 – Oct 19 Birkbeck, University of London MA Philosophy (Distinction)

- Modules:
 - Introduction to Philosophical Argument (91 %)
 - Introduction to Philosophy (66 %)
 - Metaethics (70 %)
 - Moral Responsibility (70 %)
 - Morality, Nature, and Evolution (71 %)
 - The Idea of Freedom (65 %)
 - The Philosophy of Nietzsche (audited)
 - Art and Value (audited)
- Thesis: 'Top-Down Causation in the Animal Kingdom' (76 %)

Jan 18 – Jun 18 Birkbeck, University of London HECert in Introduction to Metaphysics

- Essay: 'If I could not remember my past, would I be the same person as before?' (68 %)

¹ORCID profile: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-8626-2041>

James Clark Ross

Education

Sep 13 – Nov 16 University of Liverpool
Master of Science, MSc (Distinction)

- Thesis: 'Evaluating the influence of ^{18}F -FDG data on the target volume delineation of non-small cell lung cancers' (72 %)

Sep 09 – Jun 13 University of Manchester
Master of Physics, MPhys(Hons) (Second Class, Division One)

- MPhys Research Project: 'Optimising a homebuilt positron detector for measuring blood samples containing ^{18}F , ^{15}O ^{13}N , and ^{14}C radiotracers' (69 %)

Sep 06 – Jun 08 Peter Symonds College

- A-levels: Maths (A), Economics (A), Physics (B)

Sep 01 – Jun 06 The Henry Beaufort School

- GCSEs (7 As, 2 Bs)

James Clark Ross

Work

Dec 19 – present Maths, Physics, & Philosophy Tutor
Tutor Doctor, London, UK

Apr 19 – Dec 19 Non-Fiction Editor
Phi Magazine - Φ , London, UK

Apr 17 – Apr 19 Clinical Scientist (Medical Physicist)
Institute of Nuclear Medicine, UCL Hospitals, London, UK

Feb 16 – Feb 17 Research Technician
National Amyloidosis Centre, UCL, London, UK

Sep 13 – Feb 16 Trainee Clinical Scientist
Nuclear Medicine, University Hospitals of North Midlands, Staffordshire, UK

Nov 12 – Jun 13 Maths & Physics Tutor
Tutor Doctor, East Cheshire, UK

Interests

I am a passionate writer. In my spare time I run a philosophy blog called The Human Front and attend to a romantic, existentialist novel. I was a contributor and the Non-Fiction Editor of student philosophy magazine Phi Magazine - $\Phi$ .

I regularly attend philosophy conferences. Personal highlights include events on freedom and autonomy, existentialism, religion, natalism, death, diversity, and Simone de Beauvoir's The Second Sex.

I volunteer for the Green Party of England and Wales, whilst I am also a keen sportsman who plays semi-professional football and, no matter the context, relishes teamwork, competition, and working under pressure.

References

Academic and professional references are available upon request.